SCENE IN THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

SPEECH OF A BRAVE OLD PATRIOT.

The Springfield correspondence of the Missouri Democrat contains the following account of an exciting scene in the late Illinois Legislature:

A great sensation was created by a speech by Mr. Fink, one of the richest farmers in the State, a man who pays over three thousand dollars per annum taxes toward the support of the Government. The lobby and gallery were crowded with spectators. Mr. Fink rose to object to trifling resolutions which were being introduced by the Democrats to kill time and save off a vote upon the appropriations for the support of the State Government. He said:

Mr. Speaker—I can sit in my seat no longer and see such by-play going on. These men are trifling with the best interests of the country. They should have used their time to set off their heads, or they are traitors and secessionists at heart.

I say that there are traitors and secessionists at least in this Senate. Their actions prove it. Their speeches prove it. They gibes and laughter and cheers here nightly; when their speakers get up to denounce the war and the Administration, prove it.

I can sit here no longer and not tell these traitors what I think of them. And while so telling them, I am responsible, myself, for what I say. I stand upon my own bottom. I am ready to meet any man on this floor, in any manner, from a pint's point to the mouth of a canon, upon this charge against these traitors. (Tremendous applause in the galleries.) I am an old man of sixty-five; I came to Illinois a poor boy; I have made a little something for myself and family. I pay three thousand dollars every year in taxes. I am willing to pay six thousand, say twelve thousand, (great cheering) the old gentleman striking the desk with a blow that would knock down a bullock, and shouting the inkstand to the air) I am willing to pay my whole fortune, and then give my life to save my country from these traitors that are seeking to destroy it. (Tremendous applause, which the Speaker could not control.)

Mr. Speaker, you must please excuse me, I cannot sit longer and not tell these traitors what I think of them. And while so telling them, I am responsible, myself, for what I say. I stand upon my own bottom. I am ready to meet any man on this floor, in any manner, from a pint's point to the mouth of a canon, upon this charge against these traitors. (Tremendous applause in the galleries.) I am an old man of sixty-five; I came to Illinois a poor boy; I have made a little something for myself and family. I pay three thousand dollars every year in taxes. I am willing to pay six thousand, say twelve thousand, (great cheering) the old gentleman striking the desk with a blow that would knock down a bullock, and shouting the inkstand to the air) I am willing to pay my whole fortune, and then give my life to save my country from these traitors that are seeking to destroy it. (Tremendous applause, which the Speaker could not control.)

Mr. Speaker, you must please excuse me, I cannot sit longer in my seat and calmly listen to these traitors. My heart, that feels for my poor country, would not let me. My heart, that cries out for the lives of our brave volunteers in the field, that these traitors at home are destroying by thousands, would not let me. My heart, that bleeds for the widows and orphans at home, would not let me. Yes, these traitors and villains in this Senate (striking his clenched fist on the desk with a blow that made the Senate ring again) are killing my neighbors' sons, my fighting in the field. I dare to say to these traitors right here, and I am responsible for what I say to any one or all of them. (Cheers.) Let them come now; right here, I am sixty-five years old, and I have made up my mind to risk my life right here, on this floor, for my country. (Mr. Fink's son is near the lobby railing, and a crowd gathered around him evidently with the intention of protecting him from violence, if necessary. The last announcement was received with great cheering, and I saw many an eye flash and many a countenance grow rigid with the light of defiance.)

These men sneered at Col. Mack a few days since. He is a small man, but I am a large man. I am ready to meet them in place of Col. Mack. I am large enough for them, and I hold myself ready for them now and at any time. (Cheers from the galleries.)

Mr. Speaker, these traitors on this floor should be provided with hempen cables. They deserve them. They deserve hanging, I say, raising his voice and violently striking the desk the country would be better off swinging them up. I go for hanging them, and I dare to tell them so, right to their traitorous faces. Traitors should be hung. It would be the salvation of the country to hang them. For that reason I must rejoice at it. (Tremendous cheering.) Mr. Speaker, I beg pardon of the gentlemen in this Senate who are not traitors, but are loyal men, for what I have said, only intend it and meant it for secessionists at heart. They are here in this Senate. I see them gibe and snirk, and grin at a true Union man. Must I defy them? I stand here ready for them and dare them to come on. (Great cheering.) What man with the heart of a patriot could stand this treason any longer? I have stood it long enough. I will stand it no more. (Cheers.) I denounce these men and their sides and abettors as rank traitors and secessionists. Hell itself could not spew out a more treacherous crew than some of the men that disgrace this Legislature, this State, and this country. For myself I protest against and denounce their treacherous acts. I have voted against their measures; I will do so to the end. I will denounce them as long as God gives me breath; and I am ready to meet the traitors themselves here or anywhere, and fight them to the death. (Prolonged cheers and shout.)

I said I paid three thousand dollars a year taxes. I do not say it to brag of it. It is my duty, yes, Mr. Speaker, my privilege, to do it. But some of these traitors here, who are working night and day to ruin their miserable little bills and claims through the Legislature, to take money out of the pockets of the people, are talking about high taxes. They are hypocrites as well as traitors. I heard some of them talking about high taxes in this way, who do not pay five dollars to the support of the Government—I denounce them as hypocrites as well as traitors. (Cheers.)

The reason they pretend to be afraid of high taxes is that they do not want to vote money for the relief of the soldiers. They want to embarrass the Government and stop the war. They want to aid the secessionists to conquer our boys in the field. They care about high taxes! They are playing upon anhœw, and pay no taxes at all and never did, and never hope or expect to. This is an excuse of traitors. (Cheers.)

Mr. Speaker: Excuse me. I feel for my country, in this her hour of danger, from the tips of my toes to the ends of my hair. That is the reason I speak as I do. I cannot help it. I am bound to tell these men to their teeth what they are, and what the people, the true loyal people, think of them. (Tremendous cheering.) The Speaker rapped upon his desk, apparently to stop it, but really to add to its volume, for I could see by his flushed cheek and flashing eye that his heart was with the brave and loyal old gentleman.)

Mr. Speaker: I have said my say. I am no speaker. That is the only speech I have made, and I do not know that it deserves to be called a speech. I could not sit still any longer and see these scoundrels and traitors work out their hellish schemes to destroy the Union. They have no sentiments; let them one and all make the most of them. I am ready to back up all I say, and I repeat it, to meet these traitors in any manner they may choose from this point to the mouth of a canon. (Tremendous applause, during which the old gentleman sat down, after he had given the desk a parting whack, which sounded loud above the din of cheers and clapping of hands.)

I never before witnessed so much excitement in an assembly. Mr. Fink spoke with a force of natural eloquence, with a conviction and truthfulness, with a vigor and pathos which wrought up galleries and even members on the floor to the highest pitch of excitement.

His voice was heard in the stones that surround the square, and the people came flocking in from all quarters. In five minutes he had an audience that packed the hall to its utmost capacity. After he had concluded the Republican members and spectators rushed up and took him by the hand to congratulate him. The Democrats grid, gadding, but evidently felt the censure they were receiving most keenly, as might be seen from their blanched cheeks and redness and weary glances.

PALLIERS.

We have placed this word in the head of our leading article to-day, not because we have lost any faith in our glorious cause, or are prepared to admit that this word is to be inscribed, ever, as the epitaph upon the tomb of our Union. Never, no never. But even in an untried experiment that knowledge, which is power, will make us to detect in most cases the causes that hinder success. When Fulton prepared his first steamboat, and invited his friends on board to witness her first trial trip on the North River, they were skeptical, while he was all faith—they, some of them, taking counsel of their fears, refused to trust their lives on board such an untried monster, while Fulton was encased in all the eminence of a dignified confidence. But, when all was ready, had the boat refused to have obeyed her native power, and not have moved, he would not have been discouraged, although his friends—his best and firmest friends would have reproached him with their "I told you so," and recommended him to the care of some nursery for the deranged—they would have shouted "failure"—"it can't be done." But although Fulton would have retained his faith in the great principles upon which his theory rested, and in their ultimate success, yet, he even would have known and acknowledged that there "was a nice long snare." So we now view the terrible ordeal through which we, as a Nation, are passing.—We pour contempt upon the word failure, mouthed out upon us by puffed-mounted Johnny Bull, and middle-decked out to us by frog-eating Johnny Crapauds, and hissed out to us by traitorous copperheads in our country—and we hurl it back in the teeth of them all—we ignore it, blot it out forever from our vocabulary—we know it not. But there are occurrences now and the n, coming to us upon the wings of the lightnings, that convinces us with a paralyzing certainty that, there is something wrong somewhere. There is a fire in the very bowels of the Ship of State—secret smoldering, it may be, but consuming—aye, consuming our best lives—consuming our treasure—the bone and sinew of war. Such a fact is the one related in our telegrams of yesterday of the commander of the Susquehannah, holding his arms and supinely allowing the Oreo rebel vessel, to slip her fastenings and quietly steam through the lines of the blockade: and, also, when she was aground, to allow the rebels to quietly unload her, w' thout so much as "why do ye so?" Such an indication of something wrong, is the banded treachery of a portion of our own people to paralyze the efforts of the administration to crush out this rebellion, and dictate the terms of a permanent and honorable peace with the victorious sword of the conqueror—well knowing that a government is not worthy of a dominion that it cannot maintain at the point of the bayonet, if need be. Now there must be a remedy for these things, ere we can succeed. We shall not ultimately fail—but we shall fail, all then.

The garden of the Nation must be weeded with a sharp instrument. Traitors in office must be thrown overboard as soon as there is the least verification of traitor—off with their heads—up the block of gallows if necessary. High in office or law, failure should be the wear of debauch, and success the passport to promotion. The people will take care of their own copperheads. The ballot-box shall bear on-worker with the laymen, and the copperheads will be seen shrinking into their holes, from out of which they shall never crawl again, to bask, for a moment, in the sun-shine of political prosperity, or will be sent to take refuge in the more congenial Chickahominy of the Southern climate. Let the Government take care of their official traitors, and the people will take care of the copperhead demagogues. Then, when the government and the National party, and a National no is established, then, when loyal hearts at home will be seconded by loyal hands in the field, and in the Cabinet, "with a long pull and a strong pull and a pull all together," the noble old ship shall weather the storm, and escaped and saved from the threatening rocks, shall stand forth before the Nations of the world in all her massive strength and native beauty.

A democratic government shall be hailed by the world as the only true conservator of human rights. Freedom shall be crowned anew in America, and establish her throne upon the grave of tyranny. The broadest acknowledgement of the right of man and his capability of self-government, shall be wrung from the unwilling monarchies of the old world, and the privilege of cast and class and the subjection of aristocracy upon the blood of labor and no Apo, shall all find a common grave beneath the sea.

The North Carolina Legislature has passed its 500th of resolutions of disloyalty to the rebel confederacy by a set of resolutions pledging the support of the State in men and money, to the prosecution of the war for independence, and protesting against peace on any other basis.

MURKIN MATTERS.—It is perfectly unknown to our readers that the General Assembly, at a special session held at the city of Providence, August 1862, passed a State Militia Law.

There are some requirements of this Law, which we deem of sufficient public interest to notice, as the time draws nigh when it must become a matter of personal interest to many of our citizens, and some of the provisions of the Law will be enforced. In chapter 412, "Of the enrollment of the Militia," it is provided that in the month of April in each year, the Board of Aldermen of the cities and Town Councils of the towns, shall enroll all persons between the ages of 18 and 35 years liable to do military duty, and in the month of May to expose such names to view in the several wards and voting districts of each city and town. Chapter 421, "Of the organization of the Militia and Army offered," Section 3d, provides that any person not enrolled in any chartered company may, after he has been enrolled, and within a specified time to be named by the Governor in general orders to be promulgated throughout the State, attach himself to any chartered military company subject to the orders and Charter of said company in reference to the abolition of members, or may associate himself with not less than 62 other eligible persons like himself, not belonging to any chartered company, or a company of cavalry, artillery, infantry or riflemen; and when such company is formed it shall be organized by itself and every person who shall not, within the time to be prescribed by the Governor, avail himself of the privilege of this section, shall be assigned to such company and to such arm of the service, within their district, in such manner as the Governor shall, by general order or otherwise, direct.

By the foregoing, it will be perceived that volunteer companies may be formed, wherein men may select their own officers and associates, and thus avoid being compelled to train in the Militia with such as have taste or pride for military affairs, and who would, perhaps, rather seek to render the whole matter ridiculous, after the fashion of "general masters" of old times. The expense would not be heavy, for in Chapter 428 of "Arms, equipments, munitions, and military property," Section 2d, it is provided that "The Board of Aldermen of the several cities and the Town Councils of the several Towns shall provide for the equipments of Militia within the limits of their respective places, as many suitable arms or pieces of deposit for the arms, equipments and equipage furnished to said companies by the State, as, in the opinion of said Board of Aldermen or Town Council, is necessary.

In view of these provisions of our State Militia Law, it would appear to be desirable that, immediately after the issuing of the general orders by the Governor, that all who do not wish to join a chartered company, should form companies in manner and form as provided for in Chapter 421. We mention this matter, that early, in order that our citizens may take it into consideration, and perhaps inaugurate some preliminary movements laying reference to the requirements of the Law which will soon be brought home to them by the authority vested in the Executive of our State.

When the enrollment bill now passed by both Houses of Congress shall become a Law, and go into operation then, we presume our State Militia will become so far modified as to conform thereto. But this is a contingency, liable to be postponed until after the time specified in the Militia Law of our State, and does not particularly affect our suggestions in regard to it.

COMMUNICATIONS.

ENGLISH DAILY NEWS.—In your article published yesterday, you stated that the Collector of Customs had been in the habit of taxing Bills of Sale of vessels, and that in Newport they have been taxed from 50 cents up to $10, according to the amount of sale. I wish to correct an error in that statement in relation to taxing Bills of Sale at the Custom House in Newport. The tax-stamps are put on by those who have the Bills of Sale drawn, and are not put on by the Collector, as each person giving a Bill of Sale, must put on the stamp and cancel it himself, or by his order. Only three stamps have been paid at the Custom House in this city—two 50 cent stamps and one $1 stamp, which have not been put on the Bills of Sale, and the money left for the payment of said stamps has been returned to those who left it,—the parties not having put them on themselves, there being no stamps in this city at the time.

CHARLES N. TERRY, Esq., Col.

UNION FOUNDATION: A SIGHT OF ASTHMAS NATURALLY AS A FACT OF SCIENCE.—This is the title of a pamphlet of some forty-one pages of pressmatter, by Capt. E. B. Hunt, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, received by us from C. E. Hammett, Jr. It is a striking discussion of the question of our Nationality, upon scientific principles. It demonstrates with mathematical exactness, as well as logical argument, the fact that the Union of the whole United States, in the statu quo ante bellum, so far as the National integrity concerned, is a matter of necessity—physical, political and moral necessity, which no act of any portion of the nation can obviate or supersede.

The author, Capt. Hunt, is known to many our citizens, as he resided in Newport, some two years since, and had charge of the Light House along our coast, as a member of Light House Board.—Capt. Hunt also read one of the latest papers presented before the Scientific Association which convened in Newport, at the State House, two years ago last August. This pamphlet is published by J. Van Nostrand, 192 Broadway, N. Y., and is for sale here by C. E. Hammett, Jr.

The family of Albert Bonis of Ashburton, Mass., has been sick with diphtheria, and in nine days has lost five children, three of whom were at the same time one day last week.

Barney Williams, the Irish emigrant, came near losing his life in Washington last week by taking some medicine in which a druggist's clerk had substituted a large quantity of lardalum for paregoric. He was saved by a stomach pump.

The wife of Mr. John R. Hoyt, of West Amesbury, Mass., on the day of last week, left her home to visit the tomb to see that a pair of oxen were tied up, and being gone so long, to execute a search on the part of her husband, who is in jail, was made and she was found dead in one of the stalls. It is supposed she was struck with paralysis. Her husband survived her death just one week.

Ordination.—Deacons Robert Murray, Jr., of Barrington, and Wm. H. Collins, of Warren, were ordained to the order of the Presbytery in Grace Church this morning. A large congregation and a good number of the clergy were present, and much interest was manifested in the exercises.—The services began at 11 o'clock with the reading of the morning prayer by Rev. J. M. Peck, of Warren, assisted by Rev. Wm. Stowe, of Bristol. The ante-communion service was read by Rev. James McWhorter, of New Bedford. The candidates were presented by Rev. Messrs. Ellis of Walpole, and Henshaw, of St. Andrew's Church, Providence.

The ordination sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Hale. It presented the divine and encouraging elements of the Indian Ministry in an impressive, civil manner, and called upon the candidates to make faithfully the work to which they have been called.

The sermon was followed by the impressive service for the consecration of priests, participated in by the Bishop and the prelates who were present.

Among the clergy in attendance were

Rev. Dr. Bishop Clark, Rev. Messrs. Goodwin, Hume, Barnshaw and Wheeler of Providence, Peck, of Warren; Stowe, of Bristol; Warren of Burlington, and McWhorter of New Bedford.

With the administration of the communion, the service came to an end.

Probable Suicide.—Mr. Henry Hopkins, aged 78 years, residing at No. 10 Cherry street, was found dead sitting in his chair last evening, and circumstances led to the belief that he had caused his own death purposely by inhaling the poison gas emitted by burning charcoal. Dr. Gardner was immediately called, but life had been extinct for some time. His wife was absent from home during the day, and found him in the above condition on her return. Pending an inquest, it is said to have been the cause of the death. The deceased was an industrious man, and had acquired a competency for his declining years, but he was swept away by an act of misplaced confidence, and he was left penniless in his old age. He was removed from his old homestead in a day or two, which preyed upon his spirit, and left in that act which closed the sad history of his misfortunes.

Kriegstea.

The R. I. Institute of Instruction will hold a meeting in the Court House at Kingston on Friday and Saturday, March 6th and 7th. The lecture on Friday evening will be given by Joshua Kendall, Esq., of Bristol. Subject—The study and service of the sciences in life.

From the Editor.

Paying for Sport.—Twelve or fifteen of those engaged in the steaming carnival on High street, Monday afternoon, paid for their sport in the Police Court Thursday. They were complained of for fast driving in violation of the ordinance regulating the driving of teams in the city.

Starting Cotton Cloth.—The high figures at which cotton cloth is now selling has proved too much for the integrity of Thomas Joyce, a steamer, who has been doing general jobbing in the city. He entered upon his speculation by purchasing the platform of the freight depot at the Stonington road a large quantity of cotton cloth, some two thousand yards. His position at a low price caused a suspicion that it had been stolen, and the matter was referred to the U. S. Marshals under the Liqueur Act, which was read and passed.

Mr. S. W. Church presented the report of the Directors of the Providence, Warren and Bristol Railroad, which was ordered to be communicated to the House.

Adjourned.

House.

The House met at 10:12 o'clock, the Speaker Hon. Francis W. Miner in the chair.

Mr. Holmes of Providence, reported back from the Committee on Finance, the petition of Jacob Sawyer for relief under a certain indictment granted him under the Liqueur Act, which was read and granted and the accompanying resolution passed.

Mr. Holmes also reported back from the Committee on Finance, for relief from recognizance, which was granted and the accompanying resolution passed.

Mr. D. R. Rodman, of South Kingstown introduced an act in amendment of Title XXXIV, "Or the Militia," and of Chapter 281, in addition to the same. The object of the act was to repeat the provision that all officers should receive the same pay and allowance as were received by those of the same grade in the army of the United States, from the date of their enrollment to the time of their being mustered into service. Received, read and passed to a second reading, and referred to the Committee on the Militia.

Mr. Rodman of South Kingstown called up from the Speaker's table the communication of the Governor in reply to the resolution implying by what authority the sum of $500 was paid to the Provost Marshal.

Mr. Rodman having moved that the communication be received, read a speech in which he stated that it had appeared from this communication that the executive had assumed control of our State finances; that he had used the State's money not only in this case, but in that of the Providence Grove Hospital to the amount of $100, and in innumerable other cases to the amount of hundreds of thousands dollars, and all without any authority of law.

To be sure we pledged the State's resources to the suppression of his rebellion and very properly by so doing we did not mean to place our State's resources in the hands of any one man.

The last number in which that money had been expended, the enormous accounts which had been presented by the Quartermaster had aroused the people. They wanted to know whether such and such expenditure were judicious and authorized.

Some said that the State's money was being squandered, that the officers of one regiment had received thousands upon thousands in the way of bounties while other officers who were not bountied them by law, had been refused. They said that work which should have been done by the United States, had been shirked from the U. S. Quartermaster General, and given to civilians.

The House wanted to investigate these transactions, and see if they had been square and just and authorized by law.

Mr. Rodman then withdrew his motion for receiving the communication inasmuch as it did not come direct to the House but through the Senate.

Mr. Wilson of Worcester, and the Senator from Massachusetts, voted for the motion.

TO HORSE OWNERS.

Dr. Sweet's Infallible Liniment
FOR HORSES

Is marked, buoyant, and in all cases of lameness, arising from Sprains, Bruises or Wounds, its effect is decided and certain. Hence in Stable Halls, Stables, &c., where ever it will also secure speedy Spavin and Manege, &c., it will also cure Sprains and Bruises, being easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirmed cases are beyond its power.

No case of the kind however, is so desperate or hopeless but it may be alleviated by this Liniment, and its brilliant application will be the best and easiest means of curing the horse to always remove the Lameness, and enable the horse to travel with comparative ease.

Every horse owner should have ready at hand, for the first instance of the first signs of lameness, will effectively prevent those forms of disease mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise healthy horses nearly worthless.

See advertisement.
